

You See Tea (U.C.T)

Litmus A Freeman

Do you trust yourself to see
That from now on
We trust ourselves implicitly?

A trust in you and me
Entrust our future
For the planet, set it free

There's been anger, there's been fear
Right throughout our darkest years
But we can wipe away the tears
As our trusts start to appear

Can we take just what we need?
Maybe in the past
We've been enslaved by fear and greed

But now it's coming clear
We can't go on
Living in the system's fear

There's a way of breaking free
From their corrupt society
Free ourselves from slavery
Form a trust and be trustee

No longer play their evil game
Because no matter what we do
It all turns out the same

It harms our fellow man
So it's time to stop
Entrust in love and start again

There's a new community
Of equal souls in equity
In universal unity
A trust we call the UCT

And in our new community
We'll take a drink together, free
Tell me what drink do you see?
I see coffee, you see tea!
